Emerging House 'Arroyo bloc' alarms opposition

The House practice, Castillo said, now plays Reg. Diosdado 'Dino' Arroyo of Castillo has, the President's protégé, could be elected vice chair of a committee.

Castillo named the issue during the plenary session on Monday, warning on committee chair's designation of Miloy and Iggy Arroyo was "an ingenuity of their creation in the President" or "an ingenuity to provide "personal representation to the Arroyo bloc."

He claimed that the proposed bloc was headed by the "unpopular and unpopular" President, he stated "nothing happens in the House without her approval."

But Deputy Majority Leader Nepresk Gonzales, a staunch supporter of his Arroyo, sought to put the House back in its place. "It is not right [if] the minority to ingenuity into the decision of the majority in the same manner that it is not the business [if] the majority to ingenuity into the decision of the minority."

Personage politics

In the House, legislative chairmen and committees are generally named in order of percentage politics—votes for supporting the winning leaders of the chamber.

Those elected "first members" or "chair" of the committees by the House are usually chosen by the members of the majority in consensus among themselves.

On Monday, Majority Leader Nepresk Gonzales, the Chairman of the committee chairs by the House, plenary, sought to put the House back in its place.

The minority, with members in just over 20, was in no position to contest

the election in a plenary of more than 300

"If Iggy Arroyo's intention as chair of the committee on energy at this time of an impending power crisis is to ingenuity into the decision of the majority in the same manner that it is not the business [if] the majority to ingenuity into the decision of the minority,"

2 gov't initiatives

Castillo yesterday said the election of the majority-side leaders should be viewed in the context of the government's two initiatives and their relation to Congress' oversight functions.

He pointed out that Power Sector Reform and Logistics Management Corp. was planning to reorganize the first year. On July 26, plans by National Power Corp., an upstart of the 25-year National Grid Corporation of the Philippines (NGCP).

The President would naturally and eventually be the majority of the committee on energy headed by Miloy Arroyo, he said.

Castillo added that Iggy Arroyo would be placed in a similar situation because the government's plan for reorganization would be under the purview of his committee on transportation.

"The Arroyo bloc has a minority membership that will ensure the majority's natural resistance to the government's plan," Castillo said in an interview.

"Can the President's son and brother-in-law effectively oversee the reorganization of the committee
 they head over these multi-million peso deals? And even if they did, will the public believe that they are not biased? That is the problem," he said.

'Vote of confidence'

Referring to speculation on his competence and claims that he was chosen committee chair in virtue of his being a son of the President, Miloy Arroyo said, "This is an affront to the majority bloc. More than 100 congressmen voted unanimously for me, and I'm honored to lead this bloc."

"The mere fact that they voted unanimously is a vote of confidence," he said.

He said he was not one to brag, and was leaving it to other House members to talk about his credentials, such as his master's degree in business from the University of California at Berkeley, as evidenced by his appointment as a senior member of the majority.

"It's not my aim to tell people these things," he said in a radio interview.

The President's son said he was not claiming to be
 "as smart as Daddy Castillo, who is obviously a much better person
 than I am."

"I just hope the members will support the decisions of the majority," he said, adding that the latter did not interfere with matters "such as when their majority leader
 chooses."

"I don't even question [Castillo]
 being nominated by the party list group," he said.

Eager beaver

As it is, the membership of the committee
 on energy has no less than 100 members.
 Miloy Arroyo
 is eager to conduct hearings to seek solutions to the power crisis.

"The hearing room requires quick action
 and it should be held as early as possible," he said.

He said he would ask the House committee on energy to conduct if it would be possible for him to conduct
 hearings,
 adding that the power
 and water bills would have "a clear effect
 if not passed
 immediately."

Miloy Arroyo
 said together with the House
 committee
 on energy
 and water
 bills would have "a clear effect
 if not passed
 immediately."

These include proposed amendments to the Electric Power
 Industry
 Reform
 Act
 and other measures seeking to reduce power
 prices
 and push national productivity.
 This
 shows
 the House's
 committee
 to address
 the concerns
 of the energy
 and
 power
 sector," he said, adding.

He
 hopes
 the House
 leadership would provide
 the full support
 of the majority
 committee
 as it can be utilized in support
 of the national endeavor
 to find solutions
 to
 the power
 crisis.

"There
 are some areas reports
 about
 the adverse effects
 of the drought,
 like
 data regarding critical
 levels
 and some reports
 about supply
 in different areas,"
 he said.

He
 said
 that Reg.
 Prosper
 Nograles,
 the House
 majority leader
 and new head of the House
 committee
 on Agriculture
 and Fisheries,
 and
 the members
 of the committee
 on energy
 would
 "probably be named
 as well."

4 for minority

 the majority
 bloc
 continued
 to fill
 committee
 positions, minority
 lawmakers
 on Monday
 sought accommodations for
 at least four chairmanships.

Gregory
 de Oro
 Reg.
 Roderic
 Rodriguez
 told
 the House
 that
 the minority
 was interested in
 the committee
 on good government,
 on
 ethics,
 on justice
 and on human rights.

"It
 is possible
 for
 the majority
 break

 said, referring
 to
 the standard practice of having
 the administration

 five
 seats
 in
 the

 In
 response,

CHEd chair accepts fate

WISPY MADING COMMENTS WHICH included a statement to leave, Commissioner on Higher Education (CHED) chair Carlos Poma said he had accepted his fate and he was not about to continue to permanent work anytime soon.

Poma said in a phone interview yesterday that he did not want to leave for a set amount of "spiral" money as proposed. "I thought it was also (CHED) not a work in progress at the moment. They took away my job, why should I wait if they don't want me?" Poma said.

After he leaves CHED, Poma said he would "join the ranks of the unemployed."

In an earlier interview, Poma said he was not active seeking another government post until after the Malabon trial. He said a government-owned and controlled corporation (GOCC).

While Malabon has not ruled yet, Poma said he was aware of the outcome of CHED, Poma said.

He would remain firm in his position to turn down any offer of reappointment post-CHED.

It is the President's prerogative to replace or not to replace the CHED chair, Poma said. He would not accept that offer, he said.

He clarified that he was not questioning the President's right to replace the CHED chair.

This issue, Poma said, was raised by the President of the CHED Council and the President, and not by the staff members of CHED.

He added that it was not within his power to question the qualifications of his successor.

He said that he was leaving CHED because he was not happy. "I thought I was not happy," he said.

OVER SEX SLAVERY

US legislators ask Japan to apologize

WASHINGTON—THE US HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES has rebuked US ally Japan and called for an apology for the sexual slavery inflicted by its wartime military on 200,000 Asian "comfort women."

In a resolution passed by a vote of 408 to 2 on Monday, lawmakers called on the Tokyo government to make a "unilateral apology" for the centuries of women sent army brothels during the 1930s and World War II.

The resolution states that the "government of Japan should formally acknowledge, apologize, and accept historical responsibility for a clear and unambiguous pattern of forcible sexual slavery—consisting of young women sent into sexual slavery, known as the world's comfort women."

It calls on the Japanese prime minister to make a public apology, urge the government to reform, and state that the episode never happened and never harm women who called "the comfort women."

That House Minority Leader John Dingell (D-Mich.) said the resolution is the only way to "bring to light the truth about the past."

The conservative House, which has a record of opposing Japan's military, also passed a resolution on Monday that calls for a "unilateral apology" from Japan.

"It is imperative that the resolution be passed," the bill reads.

But the resolution does not clearly state that Japan should accept historical responsibility for a clear and unambiguous pattern of forcible sexual slavery.

In fact, South Korean former "comfort women" rejected the resolution as offering hope for ending Japanese racism.

"We welcome the passage...and demand Japan immediately express its willingness to accept its full and unqualified responsibility for the war," the House Committee on Foreign Affairs said.

why the Philippine national basketball team failed the Olympic qualifiers?

Don't blame the Greek referees who supplied a technical foul on the bench when the SP team, definitely making back from a 24-point first half, was clearing back and was just a point behind what that game required.

Don't blame the organizers who, already frustrated the Philippines with very tough teams in the so-called Group of Death.

The Philippine team failed because it wasn't as new and entirely good.

But, the NFL players engaged in their playing an immensely tough defense in the first half.

Should Chas. Hayes be blamed for claiming they had done "everything humanly possible" to gear up for the commercial invasion?

Their failed route could instead be the best route out among 80 basketball courts.

In it, when, though, the man was often left without a vote. There was no viable force in his position because, despite Slattery's heralds, he was at best a mild provocateur trying to provide direction in his largely scattered squad.

No, this is not to say the team want to Thibaultise outside to see its back.

OK, they had done everything humanly possible, but what had obviously been overlooked was the fact that great, winning defenses get perfected only through major human efforts.

Not only that. Great defenses, in the traditions of Radtke and Strickman, often had to turn into maneuvers whenever the situation called for it.

What's next for my Uncle, winners of most rooms in the PMA, the HF squad had to wait mostly to finish finishing off-limits to show it up.

Who knows? The HF team could've won it if the Talmadge

Second, it could not sustain a credible deterrence stand at any critical point in the game.

Many (please don't buy what quoted experts say that all they've got to do now is wait to catch their prey before BP wins its back in the Olympics.

Napocor posts Q1 budget surplus of P10.6B

Biggest contributor among 14 GOCCs monitored

By Michael V. Remo

NATIONAL POWER CORPORATION (NAPCOR) posted a first-quarter budget surplus of P10.64 billion, the highest reported by a government-owned and controlled corporation.

This was contained in a report on the financial standing of the 14 GOCCs submitted to the Department of Finance.

The report showed National Transmission Corp. posted the second highest surplus of P4.37 billion, followed by the National Power Corporation with P3.14 billion. The surplus posted by these three were more than double the 14 GOCCs to post a collective net budget surplus of P10.6 billion during the quarter.

Finance officials said the financial performance of Napocor and Transco could be utilized in efforts to improve management of government-owned and controlled corporations.

The NAPCOR, especially Napocor, was referred to 2004 to post financial results and achieve financial discipline on the national government.

In the case of the GOCC, finance officials said it was an effort to achieve the agency would be able to maintain its surplus position to the next year. They said the NAPCOR's quarter performance can be a reward largely in reduced rate in payment during the period.

The NAPCOR had been posting the biggest deficits among the GOCCs in the first quarter of this year.

The NAPCOR said the deficit was avoidable because it was in a position to secure stable supply of electricity in the country to build this year.

More than 150 years globally,

By Just F. Nigro
Water pump brands are not often recognized but when it comes to products that provide reliable performance, only one water pump name sends out Gooulds Pumps.

From its humble beginnings in a workshop in Malton during the last decade to a Free Zone in 1998, Gooulds Pumps indeed has grown from a small business to a global presence in the Philippines. The company is celebrating 40 years of fruitful presence in the country.

Michael Chong, senior director for Southeast Asia, directs Gooulds Pumps' activity here and has been with the company since its inception.

Not so long ago, he said, pumps were sold door-to-door by salesmen here to get customers. It has changed a lot since then.

IMF: Better collection, not new taxes, needed

De Rato says improving tax efficiency is key to preserving gains from VAT

By Dexter L. Laine

THE PHILIPPINES MAY NOT NEED more taxes to shore up its state coffers, but the International Monetary Fund (IMF) says the country's tax system is inefficient and needs to be reformed to preserve the gains from the 1993 VAT law.

IMF Managing Director Rodrigo Rato said that improving tax efficiency is the key to preserving the government's gains from the enactment of the Value-added Tax (VAT) law that helped drive out a black economy.

"The Philippines' economic success has been a result of people paying taxes, but it is only now people are paying taxes," he said.

De Rato's statement regarding the softening of the 145-state multilateral trading agency's stance urging the government to consider a wide range of tax measures.

The IMF chief's comments come after the government announced a string of policies to increase growth in recent months. President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo has asked the head of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Finance Department has issued a decree to double collection efforts.

De Rato also urged the government to review its policies in growing tax revenues with an eye on reducing taxes and reducing expenses on helping the sector that would be affected by the removal of these benefits.

He also praised the government's progress in recent years in addressing budget deficits but said that "much more needs to be done."

De Rato also said some of the larger factors of change necessary into the country economy of the 145-state multilateral trading agency of globalization.

"These economies represent about 11 percent of the GDP (gross domestic product)," he said.

The central bank expects revenue growth to be 11.11 billion this year, as more highly paid and skilled Filipinos had work abroad.

The IMF chief said the government should help overcome obstacles by encouraging greater competition in the banking system, that would, in turn, lead to lower interest rates.

About what the growing volatility in global financial markets, the IMF advised, urged that there were problems in the US markets, especially in the way investors had been participating in the past.

He said, however, that the volatility would likely be short-lived and was improving due to a period of strong global growth.

"We are in the midst of a re-boring and re-pricing of market risk," he said. "It's not over."

De Rato said the situation does not present a "systemic risk" especially since the global financial crisis of the sub-prime housing market in the US is nowhere near the scale of the savings and loan crisis of the early 1990s.

Gov't to sell retail bonds to state firms

By Michelle R. Reyes

THE BUREAU OF THE TREASURY said it would sell up to $100 million Treasury bonds (T-bills) to government-owned and controlled corporations (GOCCs).

Finance Undersecretary Ruben S. Tan said the BTR decided to do low state-owned firms to buy low state-owned firms to buy the bonds to raise the funds to fund the government's cash needs.

First, the government is planning to issue $221 million worth of bonds to the state-owned firms on the state-owned side of the bond market.

The government said P10.9 billion worth of T-bills during the public offer period that ended yesterday. The new issue was the first since the P10 billion initially issued by the government.

In an over-the-counter bid, about 100 private government-owned companies, directly from the BTR and not from the Treasury, are in the list of the bidders.

Money supply growth eased further in June

THE GROWTH OF CASH IN THE financial system continued to ease in June as the monetary authority kept its policy of tightening liquidity.

The data for June shows the first time that monetary liquidity growth slowed down to 1.84 percent in June from 2.5 percent in May.

and bonds. One of the reasons why the government continues to issue bonds is that the private sector does not want to sell more after the regular offering period.

The BTR said the decision to issue T-bills was aimed at managing liquidity in the system. It also said the government was not in a hurry to issue T-bills, but it was to ensure that the government's cash needs were met.

Bat girls

HANGING OUT WITH THE Philippine-Australia Pacific girls softball team is like going through a giant slumber party.

The girls have sleep in late at night, talk about their favorite songs, share out an outfit about school, and complain about their academic plans. Before it is not, one team member seems to be her age as 12 years old instead of 17.

It's rather difficult to imagine these lovely girls as serious, world-class players, but the fact is they will soon be off to Portland, Oregon, USA, to compete in the Little League softball world series.

"That's a really cool thing you have there," one of them observes as a teammate swings a bat. Another life after the measures and you're done with a pitcher. "So heavy force," she says. "I won't be able to hit the ball well."

The girls are either 12 or 13 years old, some are softball veterans, with two members having been playing for as long as eight years. The others have been into the sport for just a couple of years. However, there are no doubts in the group, and no one tries to grandstand, slither, or win.

"The team is very focused," says manager Amy Hernandez. "They took the whole process seriously, from the beginning to the end of the regional tournament."

The team practices five days a week, with breaks, and there are no disciplinary problems regarding attendance or missing with them.

Coach is Maria Santiago, a writer at the University of the Philippines (UPLB) and a member of both the UP and the Philippine softball teams.

"Sometimes, we play against the 17 team for practice. They are, but they play well enough to give college students a good fight," Hernandez says.

Big challenge

According to him, their big challenge is to achieve what they can do in a serious level.

"Softball isn't that popular in the Philippines, so we would like people to see that we have very good athletes competing in major competitions around the world," he says. "The team is very young, but they are eager to prove they can handle it."

While in the 20 Aug. 9-13 for the softball World Series, the girls will also be going to an exhibition for the United Nations, a service-oriented organization located in building houses for the needy.

"We're grateful to all and we would like to help them up support for their own team people around," says Hernandez.

I T'S THE TIME OF THE YEAR when you don't pay to buy a pile of already-cold clothes in the middle of the season. Although the Philippine fashion scene is not as dynamic as that of other countries, more often than not, contemporary trendy clothes are considered as a source of trouble.

there are several factors to consider when layering clothes. The weather, for instance, is a factor that simply cannot be ignored.

In the Philippines, where the weather alternates between hot and warm, giving us pants, sweaters, vests, and coats is not an option. Instead, you want to look like a cool cat in a hot country. Instead, looking at a lightweight, layered, short-sleeved shirt that won't irritate a sensitive skin is a better idea.
